Established in 1888 as Sanpete Stake Academy, Snow College has always held an important place in rural Utah, with the original school being founded entirely through community donations. Snow College has since grown to offer numerous certifications, associate degrees, and select baccalaureate programs to its nearly 6,000 students annually. Perhaps most known for its academic excellence in fields like engineering, health professions, and the arts, Snow College remains the academic, athletic, and cultural heart of Central Utah.

Students attending Snow College enjoy access to a number of study abroad programs, internships, and affordable tuition and housing. Located in close proximity to many natural outdoor recreation areas, Snow College prioritizes a healthy student culture as an important facet of the educational experience.

SNOW COLLEGE SOCIAL SCIENCES

The Snow College Division of Social and Behavioral Science encapsulates four academic departments: Education & Family Studies, Exercise Science, Social Science, and Behavioral Science. Within these departments, students are offered a variety of programs such as political science, economics, and criminal justice. The social sciences educate students on effective communication and critical thinking skills, empowering them to be thoughtful and engaged citizens. Graduating students leave their college not just as valuable additions to the workforce, but as individuals strengthened with a more profound understanding of our social structures, institutions, and communities.

Social sciences courses have a high enrollment rate at Snow College, with 42% of all Snow College students taking a social science course at some point during their undergraduate education. This new building will be crucial in accommodating this attendance increase, in addition to providing desperately needed facility upgrades.

COMMITTEE STATEMENT

The Art Selection Committee intends to commission site-specific artwork through a nationwide search for qualified artists. The focus will be on works that enhance the educational and communal environment of the new Social Science Building at Snow College's Ephraim campus. Artists are encouraged to consider themes that resonate with the area's rich pioneer heritage, deep agricultural history, and unique cultural traditions. Artwork should reflect the distinctive character of the region today—its hardworking culture, the thriving arts community, and the surrounding natural beauty.

The Social Sciences Building will be a vital educational and community-centered resource, both for Snow College students and the Ephraim community at large. The new facilities will support not only higher education programs, but also provide early childhood education opportunities to local residents. Community is a powerful driving force for this project. The academic discipline of social sciences centers community as being pivotal to the function of our daily lives, our psychologies, and our social structures. The concept of "community" is clearly captured in the originating history of Snow College as a crowd-funded project meant to improve the lives of Ephraim's young people. By engaging with these histories and environments, commissioned works will enrich the daily experience of students, faculty, and visitors, grounding the building in its community while inspiring dialogue, reflection, and a sense of belonging.

Artworks may be considered for the following locations:

- Exterior works to be installed in the student seating area on the east side of the building or along the north or west exterior landscaping areas of the build site.
- Interior main lobby entry to the building. Only single-story areas are available for installation.
- Distributed throughout the interior of the building, creating a "seek and find" approach to artwork discovery.

The artwork's subject matter and content must be appropriate for public exhibition and not contain advertising, religious references, sexual or violent content, or convey political partisanship.
